 Inspiration for the book ***

Ajit Jaokar, the founder of the futuretext publishing company, originally inspired me to write this book under the original working title of Digital Eves. Ajit introduced me to Judy Breck and Karen Coppock by email . I contacted Jensine Larsen by the same method. Research and interviews took place and the work was reviewed. Due to various changes in our business lives the Digital Eves project did not proceed to publication even though the written text was completed in 2007

Following my redundancy from the Electrolux Group in 2010, I began to look at my “unfinished projects” which as well as some long needed refurbishment on my family home, also included a review of the research and interviews included in the work originally titled “Digital Eves”. I approached Ajit about the possibility of resurrecting the work and he kindly agreed that I could now contact other publishers with a view to releasing this book under a new title.
